Mission

The Marr's Field Journal is a literary magazine written, edited and published by undergraduate students of the University of Alabama. It consists of both fiction and poetry. The Spring and Summer 1999 issue was praised by faculty, staff and students as one of the best installments of the MFJ. The overall goal of the MFJ is to enlighten the student body about the existence and purpose of the MFJ. Their purpose is to provide a means of publication for undergraduates, to give them a chance to see their names in print and to further the development of young and aspiring artists at the University of Alabama.

Frequency

The MFJ is published twice yearly.

Facilities

The MFJ offices are located in Rm 207 Student Media Building on University Blvd.
