Unique Opportunities for First-Year Students

About
- Mission
- Examples of Emerging Scholars’ Projects
- What Participants Say About ESP
- Why Undergraduate Research?

Apply
- Application
- Frequently Asked Questions

Conference
- Undergraduate Research & Creative Activity Conference
- 2014 UR&CA Conference Winners

Emerging Scholars News

For Scholars and Mentors
- Best Practices
- Mentor a Scholar

Contact

The Emerging Scholars Program is a unique opportunity for first-year students to engage in research with faculty members. These partnerships take shape gradually over the first semester of the program, become active in the second semester, and often continue as important parts of each student’s UA experience. Students from all UA colleges can participate in the program. Although grades and test scores are considered, the most important qualifications for admission to Emerging Scholars are strong interest, enthusiasm, and willingness to work hard.