CREATIVE HIGHLIGHTS

Newspaper Blackout
Texan artist and writer Austin Kleon is the innovator behind a new style of poetry. He redacts newspapers with permanent marker to create a poem out of what is left. This idea came to him as a way to break down his writer’s block. He originally thought it would just be a writing exercise before his wife pointed out that he was actually creating poetry!

Tin Can Tales: "Firsts"
The first installment of Tin Can Tales followed the theme of “firsts” and took place November 21, 2013 in the Greensboro Room at the Bama Theatre.
