Celebrating Six Years of Educating Parent Leaders!

The Parent Leadership Academy is a program dedicated to educating and developing parent leaders who will make a significant contribution to strengthening their school communities and supporting students’ academic achievement. Schools rely on parent leaders who are knowledgeable about education, and skilled in communicating and collaborating with all members of their school communities. Parent involvement is crucial to ensuring the best possible education for students, but knowing how to strengthen the connection between schools and parents can be challenging. The University of Alabama Parent Leadership Academy provides leadership development and networking experiences for parents committed to:

- Increasing student achievement through parent involvement
- Building strong school communities characterized by trust, integrity and communication
- Becoming knowledgeable about education, including issues of school finance
- Using community resources to benefit all members of the school community
