University Days

Fall 2014 and Spring 2015 dates will be available in late summer.

University Days offer prospective students information on topics such as admissions; majors and minors; academic support and programs; costs; financial aid, and scholarships; and on-campus living and dining.

Please join us and a group of outstanding high-school and transfer students like yourself for a daylong visit at The Bryant Conference Center on the campus of The University of Alabama.

Each University Days event is a day of information sharing designed to introduce you and your family to just about everything the University has to offer. The topics we will cover include the following:

- admissions
- our nine undergraduate colleges and schools
- majors and minors
- academic support
- costs and financial aid, including grants, loans, student employment, and payment plans
- scholarships
- on-campus living
- on-campus dining
student organizations and activities

- career opportunities and services

University Days are excellent opportunities to tour the campus and talk to faculty, staff, and current students. You may discuss your interests and goals with academic advisors and faculty, or you may find out how to get involved in some of our more than 200 student organizations. Most important, you will see how Alabama is a place where your dreams can grow.

We're looking forward to meeting you, so please respond today.
